

Dilley Listed as a “Band 1” Mediator in Chambers USA Guide

June 23, 2026 | Firm News | Chambers & Partners

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. — Foster Swift Collins & Smith, PC shareholder, Frederick “Fred” D. Dilley, is listed as a “Band 1” attorney in the Litigation: Mediators category by Chambers & Partners in its 2026 USA Guide. This distinction places him among only five attorneys in the state of Michigan to earn this honor.

In addition to Dilley being listed, fellow Foster Swift attorneys Sara Cunningham and Michael Oliva were also listed as "Band 2"attorneys and Kelly Reed Lucas as a "Band 3" attorney, respectively, in the Energy & Natural Resources category.

Chambers is a globally recognized legal research and ranking organization that evaluates attorneys and law firms based on in-depth independent research, including client feedback, peer reviews, and demonstrated experience.

Attorney listings are organized into “Bands,” with a Band 1 representing the highest level of professional excellence, recognizing attorneys who are widely considered leaders in their field for legal ability, client service, and reputation.

Based in Grand Rapids, Fred brings over 40 years of litigation experience, with the past 15 years focused primarily on mediation and arbitration. A highly sought-after facilitative mediator, he conducts approximately 100 mediations annually with his practice covering a wide spectrum of disputes, including business and commercial litigation, personal injury cases, and complex matters involving securities fraud, intellectual property, and antitrust claims.

In addition to his Chambers recognition, Fred has received numerous professional honors throughout his career, including longstanding inclusion in Best Lawyers in America® and fellowship in the American College of Trial Lawyers.
